

If more is needed, Jonathan Brickman is available at (785) 233-9977 or jbrickman@joshuacorps.org.

Against Futility

When a man or a woman talks much and loudly about something, watch them carefully.

Very often they are talking in order to get other people to agree with them, so they won't be so lonely, or feel so stupid. And very often they are talking in order to get people to give them money, or to build their buildings, or to "save" some lives. But there is an alternative.

If you really desire it, a truth will be driven into your soul so deep that it cannot be removed. This truth is the fact that there is a God who hates evil things, who destroys evil people, and who is willing to make you different, to make you very good, and lovable to Him and many others. There is no catch: all you have to do is desire it, and follow it once it is given. But you have to desire it, and it has to be delivered not by men or women. Two other benefits: as you follow this truth more and more, you will be happier and happier, and you will live forever, no matter what happens to your body in the world. So ask for it. God will give it to you, if you want it.

Every single thing in the world built by men and women, buildings and bridges and Constitutions and flags and churches and all, will one day be destroyed.

No firemen, policemen, doctors, social-workers, or nurses ever save any lives. They may extend some lives...but they save none, at all, ever.

More children are in school being taught useless drivel than ever before.

More people of all ages are being taught how to murder than ever before.

This year, there will be fewer forty-year wedding anniversaries than ever before.

There is more self-destruction than ever before. There is more self-destruction of individuals, and of families, than ever before in human history.

But we do not have to serve death. There is an alternative.